DEATH OF DOCTOR HOUGEN

Passes Away in Chicago Hospital After an Operation for Cancer on Tuesday Morning.

Dr. O. T. Hougén, who was taken to Chicago where he underwent an operation for cancer in the Wesley hospital, passed away Tuesday, May 13th, in spite of all that could be done for him by the attending physicians. The operation was performed last Friday, and for a time it was thought that he might rally and in a measure recover his health, but subsequently there was a turn for the worse and he gradually grew weaker until the end came.

Dr. Hougén was probably as well known as any physician in Wood County. He was 52 years of age, and came here about 25 years ago, when a young man and engaged in the practice of medicine. He took more than ordinary interest in surgery, and had gained quite a reputation as a practitioner along these lines, and was considered one of the best medical men in this section. He was an outspoken man and had many friends in all walks of life who will miss him more than the ordinary man is missed.

The remains arrived in this city this morning and the funeral will be held on Friday afternoon, although the details are not completed at this writing.

A meeting of several prominent lumbermen of the state was held in this city Tuesday to effect an organization for the purpose of extending financial aid and assistance to Mr. J. S. Thompson in the management of the affairs of the Badger Box & Lumber Company. An excellent committee was appointed through whom it is expected very satisfactory results will be obtained.

This concern has for some time felt the need of more financial aid, and this arrangement will not only provide the necessary credit but it is also the intention of the committee to assist Mr. Thompson in securing a competent man who will relieve him of part of the detail work.

This factory is a good institution for Grand Rapids and there were frequent expressions of praise and confidence in Mr. Thompson. The company's affairs are not in a serious financial condition but needed an extension of credit to enable them to successfully carry on the business. Concerns of this character generally have felt the depression in the lumber and manufacturing business, but the future looks much brighter and the Badger Box & Lumber Company will no doubt continue to be a successful institution.

Changes in Hirzy Jewelry Store for Better Place.

The front has been removed from the Hirzy Jewelry store and a new one will be put in of larger design and construction. The partition in the store is also being moved back so that the space in the store part will be about fifty per cent larger than before. A number of new show cases will also be added and when the whole thing is complete it will be a much better looking place than before.

As the store has been Mr. Hirzy has been greatly cramped for room and the change will give him a chance to add to his stock and better display what he now has.

Skin Grafting Saves Life—Mrs. O. Boyle's Pittsville woman who was so terribly burned when a can of tar which she was heating on a stove, exploded and who was brought to the hospital in this city ten days ago for treatment, is now on the road to complete recovery. Tuesday and Thursday of this week Dr. H. H. Milbee of Pittsville, treated her to skin grafting with perfect success, with the exception of one small portion, which has since been re-grafted. The burned surface extended from the stomach over the chest and one arm all of which had to be covered with human skin which had been donated by neighbors of the afflicted woman. It took the skin of nearly a dozen persons to complete the operation. With the improvements now taking place it is expected that Mrs. Boyle will soon leave the hospital a well woman. At the time of the accident she was so badly burned that hope for her recovery was abandoned. The surface covered by the new skin is half the size of a newspaper.—Marshfield Herald.

Death of Mrs. A. P. Mitten

(Contributed)

Word was received by Mrs. F. MacKinnon on Friday morning, conveying the sad intelligence of the death of her sister, Mrs. A. P. Mitten, which occurred Thursday night, May 8, at the Penneyer Sanitarium in Kenosha, Wis. From early womanhood to the last years of her life, a victim of ill health, it is safe to say, she passed half of her life in acute physical suffering, yet she never lost interest in the members of her old homestead, but loved to have them about her and to be with them whenever her feeble health would permit. Since the death of her husband three years ago, she made her home at the sanitarium in the hopes of regaining health and strength in this beautiful rest place on the shores of Lake Michigan. Her sudden death was a great shock to her family and was the result of a stroke of apoplexy, from which she never rallied.

Mrs. Mitten was born in Green Bay Wisconsin, October 25, 1864, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hoskinson, she came to Grand Rapids, when about eighteen years of age, and as Miss "Bonnie" Hoskinson was greatly beloved and admired. Possessed of great personal beauty, with her home with her sister, and an unusual musical talent, she soon became a great social favorite, naturally cheerful and with a ready wit and keen appreciation of humor, she loved laughter rather than tears, and through the last long years of her life she was patient and gentle to the end.

She was married in Grand Rapids, October 19, 1890, to the late Dr. Allen P. Mitten of Seattle, Wash. Three children were born to them, of whom two are living, Robert, a student at DePaul College, and Marion who makes her home with her aunt, Mrs. E. M. Hoskinson. The memory of Mrs. Mitten is held in loving remembrance by hosts of old time friends.

Now her daily task is over; Now the weary days are past; Now the father's shore; Landing the voyagers at last; Father, in thy gracious keeping, Leave me now thy servant sleeping. There the tears of earth are dried; There his hidden works are clear; There the work of life is tried; By a juster judge than here, Father, in thy gracious keeping, Leave me now thy servant sleeping. There the penitent that turn, To the cross of Jesus learn, At his feet in Paradise— Father in the gracious keeping, Leave me now thy servant sleeping. "Earth to earth, and dust to dust" Calmly now the words we say, Left behind we wait in trust For the resurrection day. Father, in thy gracious keeping, Leave me now thy servant sleeping.

The funeral services of Mrs. A. P. Mitten took place from the Episcopal church at 12 o'clock Sunday noon Rev. E. H. Hedner officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Davis departed on Tuesday evening for a visit of several days at the Will Gross home at Wausau.

Mrs. Henry Nettie and two daughters of Furlerton, Maryland, are expected this week to spend the summer with her mother, Mrs. Lydia Houston.

Mrs. Adeline Trons of Tomah arrived in the city Tuesday evening to attend the celebration to be held tonight by the Eastern Star in honor of Mrs. Purdy.

Knuth of that city. The ceremony will take place tomorrow afternoon at the home of the bride's parents and following a short stay at Grand Rapids, the young couple will return to Merrill to make their future home.

Mr. Fehrman was formerly engaged as foreman at the Stange-Bills company's plant at Grand Rapids and is well known in that city. He has a host of friends in this city as well, some of whom will depart this evening to attend the wedding. Mr. Fehrman expects to return with his bride next Friday.

A SPIRITED RUNAWAY.

Team Frightened at Auto Throws Occupants From Rig.

Albert Gelschlager and his wife and little child were in the city on Tuesday, having driven to town in a farm wagon. While coming down Grand Avenue the team became frightened at an automobile that was passing, and during their plunging the tongue of the wagon dropped down and the team started west on the avenue, dragging the outfit with it. When west of the Northwestern track the wagon struck a post, tearing off both hind wheels and throwing the occupants of the rig to the ground. Mr. Gelschlager had one side of his face badly bruised and torn, one ear being torn to shreds, and his hands were also torn and bruised. The other two occupants of the rig escaped without injury, although they were shaken up somewhat by being thrown from the wagon.

Comparative Cost of Fireproof Construction.

At this time of the year many are building or planning to build. We urge upon all such the necessity and advisability of using fire resistive materials as far as possible.

The comparative cost and reasons showing the need, both private and public, of fireproof construction are well stated by Philip H. Bevier, C. S., as follows:

"At the present price of building material, fireproof construction can be erected at a cost not to exceed 10 to 15 per cent more than non-proof, and when we consider that fireproof buildings deteriorate about one-ninth of 1 per cent per year as compared to 4 per cent for ordinary buildings, that they rot better and that, money can be borrowed on them on better terms, that they are vermin-proof, cooler in summer and warmer in winter, it would certainly seem the part of wisdom and self-interest to adopt a better method in every case when a building is intended to be a permanent character."

When a man builds a house in the country, it may be that he has a right to jeopardize his own life and property and those of his family and gamble with the insurance companies, but there is no question that the owner of property in a city or town has no right to erect a structure which will be a menace to the safety of the life and property of the adjacent owner. The principle is clearly recognized in practice, and many of the smaller cities are adopting building codes requiring fireproof construction throughout a certain portion of the business section, and semi-proof buildings in less congested districts.

If one half of the money spent by American cities for fire losses were spent for better building construction, the annual loss by fire would soon begin to decrease. Improvement along the line of better construction can only come gradually. It can and should be hastened in thickly settled communities by stringent building laws. City officials must be awakened to their responsibilities and the individual shown that his pecuniary interests lie in lessening the fire risk. Old buildings cannot be torn down at once and rebuilt, but we can see it that no more fire traps shall be built where they are a menace to other structures." May 12, 1913. T. M. Purcell, State Fire Marshal.

VOTED FOR THE ROAD.

County Board Decides to Build Highway to Marshfield.

At the meeting of the county board it was voted to build the proposed highway between this city and Marshfield by way of Pittsville. There was some opposition to the measure, but when it is seen that a large body of men scattered over different parts of a county can see things exactly alike.

Some people wanted the road built by way of Vesper, and had the only objection been to get a direct line between this city and Marshfield, that would have been the way to build it. It was also argued that the road between here and Vesper is especially bad, which is a fact, probably one of the worst in the county, but it may be that the people in the town of Sigel will want to use some of these days and come to a realization that they have been wasting their money in the way they have been building roads in the past, and then there will be an improvement in affairs out that way.

When the new road between this city and Pittsville is completed it will mean that the people of that city can get over here in less than an hour in a case of necessity, which will be considerably different from the present situation.

The sum of $3000 was appropriated for use this year on the road; $3000 to be expended on each end. This will be used for grading and grading the right of way and it is expected that $10,000 will be voted at the next session of the board, to be expended next year. Estimates as to what the completed road will cost vary considerably, but it will probably cost between $75,000 and $100,000.

East Siders Win.

Those west side folks are pretty good baseball players, but the east sideers are apparently about seven times as good as the west side aggregation for the east side bunch won the game by a score of 7 to 1. The lineup of the two teams was as follows:

East Side
J. B. Arpin, center field.
L. Mathis, short stop.
Reardon, third base.
Martin, first base.
P. J. Smith, second base.
Schubel, right field.
Chas. Briere, catcher.
J. Hamilton, left field.
Johnson, pitcher.

West Side
L. Horton, short stop.
Hansen, catcher.
C. Natwick, first base.
Carriagan, second base.
A. Natwick, left field.
A. Murdy, third base.
Brynn, center field.
A. Madsen, right field.
Aker, pitcher.

"The Frolics of 1912"

"The Frolics of 1912" which comes to Daly's theater Sunday night, featuring Rube Wolch and Kitty Francis, is the only musical comedy ever written that makes any pretense toward being a problem play or a prime factor in the spiritual uplift. This comedy has three moral points that are strongly emphasized, and which have a tendency toward making the audience think. But the play was never written to preach a sermon and despite its occasional touches of seriousness it is without a doubt the biggest laughing show on the record. Every act is crammed full of big hearty laughs, catchy music and exceptionally pretty girls. This is a real $1.50 show with 35 people and a carload of scenery but we are going to make the prices within the reach of all, 50c for the best seats in the house.

Free Lectures.
A series of free lectures by Rev. Fr. Welsh, Paulist Missionary, of Chicago, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus will be given in SS. Peter & Paul's Catholic church, commencing Sunday evening, May 18th, at 8 o'clock and each evening thereafter at the same hour to and including Sunday, May 25th.

Non-Catholics are especially invited as the purpose of these lectures is to make a clear and honest exposition of the teachings and practices of the Catholic church, in the interest of fairness and Christian Charity.

All questions pertaining to the teachings and practices of the Catholic church deposited in the Question Box in the vestibule of the church will be answered.

First Chalmers Car.

The first Chalmers car to be owned in Grand Rapids was received by Otto Roenius last week. The new car is a six cylinder machine, and has all the latest kinks and turns that are calculated to be necessary in order to get any fun out of motoring. These include a self starter, electric light, shock absorbers and several other improvements that do not happen to occur to us at the moment. Otto has taken the agency for the Chalmers and if you are interested in motor cars at all he will be pleased to give you a demonstration.

Had a Rib Broken.

George Charbonneau had a rib broken on Sunday by being thrown from a rig which he was driving for the Waterman livery. The team became frightened at an approaching automobile and tipped the buggy over, throwing Mr. Charbonneau against a tree. While the hurt was a painful one and will lay him up for a time, it is expected that with proper medical attendance he will suffer no ill effects.

DEATH OF DOCTOR HOUGEN

Passes Away in Chicago Hospital After an Operation for Cancer on Tuesday Morning.

Dr. O. T. Hougen, who was taken to Chicago where he underwent an operation for cancer in the Wesley hospital, passed away Tuesday, May 13th, in spite of all that could be done for him by the attending physicians. The operation was performed last Friday, and for a time it was thought that he might rally and in a measure recover his health, but subsequently there was a turn for the worse and he gradually grew weaker until the end came.

Dr. Hougen was probably as well known as any physician in Wood County. He was 52 years of age, and came here about 25 years ago, when a young man and engaged in the practice of medicine. He took more than ordinary interest in surgery, and had gained quite a reputation as a practitioner along these lines, and was considered one of the best medical men in this section. He was an outspoken man and had many friends in all walks of life who will miss him more than the ordinary man is missed.

The remains arrived in this city this morning and the funeral will be held on Friday afternoon, although the details are not completed at this writing.

A meeting of several prominent lumbermen of this state was held in this city Tuesday to effect an organization for the purpose of extending financial aid and assistance to Mr. J. S. Thompson in the management of the affairs of the Badger Box & Lumber Company. An excellent committee was appointed through whom it is expected very satisfactory results will be obtained.

This concern has for some time felt the need of more financial aid, and this arrangement will not only provide the necessary credit, but it is also the intention of the committee to assist Mr. Thompson in securing a competent man who will relieve him of part of the detail work.

This factory is a good institution for Grand Rapids and at this meeting of lumbermen there were frequent expressions of praise and confidence in Mr. Thompson. The company's affairs are not in a serious financial condition but needed an extension of credit to enable them to successfully carry on the business. Concerns of this character generally have felt the depression in the lumber and manufacturing business, but the future looks much brighter and the Badger Box & Lumber Company will no doubt continue to be a successful institution.

Knuth of that city. The ceremony will take place tomorrow afternoon at the home of the bride's parents and following a short stay at Grand Rapids, the young couple will return to Merrill to make their future home.

Mr. Fehrman was formerly engaged as foreman at the Stange-Ellis company's plant at Grand Rapids and is well known in that city. He has a host of friends in this city as well, some of whom will depart this evening to attend the wedding. Mr. Fehrman expects to return with his bride next Friday.

Death of Miss Fohart.

Miss Della Fohart of Bron died on Saturday morning after an illness of about two weeks, death being caused by peritonitis. Deceased was 39 years of age and made her home with her father.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning from St. Peter & Paul church, Rev. Wm. Reding officiating.

Will Erect a Home—Emil Clausen has purchased the two lots belonging to the F. A. Cady estate located on the corner of Eighth and Baker streets and intends to erect a modern brick home there in the near future.

M. A. Bogger is having a garage built in the rear of his Vine street residence. The building is being constructed of concrete blocks and will have a cement floor.

A SPIRITED RUNAWAY.

Team Frightened at Auto Throws Occupants From Rig.

Albert Oelschlaeger and his wife and little child were in the city on Tuesday, having driven to town in a farm wagon. While coming down Grand Avenue the team became frightened at an automobile that was passing, and during their plunging the tongue of the wagon dropped down and the team started west on the avenue, dragging the outfit with it. When west of the Northwestern track the wagon struck a post, tearing off both hind wheels and throwing the occupants of the rig to the ground. Mr. Oelschlaeger had one side of his face badly bruised and torn, one ear being torn to rags, and his hands were also badly torn and bruised. The other two occupants of the rig escaped without injury, although they were shaken up somewhat by being thrown from the wagon.

Comparative Cost of Fireproof Construction.

At this time of the year many are building or planning to build. We urge upon all such the necessity and advisability of using fire resistive materials as far as possible.

The comparative cost and reasons showing the need, both private and public, of fireproof construction are well stated by Philip H. Bevier, C. S., as follows:

If the present price of building material, fireproof construction will be erected at a cost not to exceed 10 to 15 per cent more than non-proof, and when we consider that fireproof buildings deteriorate about one-ninth of 1 per cent per year as compared to 4 per cent for ordinary buildings, that they rent better and that money can be borrowed on them on better terms, that they are vermin-proof, cooler in summer and warmer in winter, it would certainly seem the part of wisdom and self-interest to adopt a better method in every case when a building is intended to be a permanent structure.

When a man builds a house in the country, it may be that he has a right to jeopardize his own life and property and those of his family and gambler with the insurance companies, but there is no question that the owner of property in a city or town has no right to erect a structure which will be a menace to the safety of the life and property of the adjacent owner. The principle is clearly recognized in practice, and many of the smaller cities are adopting building codes requiring fireproof construction throughout a certain portion of the business section, and semi-proof buildings in less congested districts.

If one half of the money spent by American cities for fire losses were spent for better building construction, the annual loss by fire would soon begin to decrease. Improvement along the line of better construction can only come gradually. It can and should be hastened in thickly settled communities by stringent building laws. City officials must be awakened to their responsibilities and the individual shown that his pecuniary interests lie in lessening the fire waste. "Old buildings cannot be torn down at once and rebuilt, but we can see it that no more fire traps shall be built where they are a menace to other structures." T. M. Purcell, May 12, 1913. VOTED FOR THE ROAD.

County Board Decides to Build Highway to Marshfield.

At the meeting of the county board it was voted to build the proposed highway between this city and Marshfield by way of Pittsville. There was some opposition to the measure, but then it is seldom that a large body of men scattered over different parts of a county can see things exactly alike.

Some people wanted the road built by way of Vesper, and had the only object been to get a direct line between this city and Marshfield, that would have been the way to build it. It was also argued that the road between here and Vesper is especially bad, which is a fact, probably one of the worst in the county, but it may be that the people in the town of Sigel will wake up some of those days and come to a realization that they have been wasting their money in the way they have been building roads in the past, and then there will be an improvement in affairs out that way.

The city and Pittsville is completed it will mean that the people of that city can get over here in less than an hour in a case of necessity, which will be considerably different from the present situation.

The sum of $6000 was appropriated for use this year on the road, $3000 to be expended on each end. This will be used for grading and draining the right of way and it is expected that $10,000 will be voted at the next session of the board, to be expended next year.

Estimates as to what the completed road will cost vary considerably, but it will probably cost between $15,000 and $100,000.

East Siders Win.

These west side folks are pretty good baseball players, but the east sideers are apparently about seven times as good as the west side aggregation for the east side bunch won the game by a score of 7 to 1. The lineup of the two teams was as follows:

East Side
J. B. Arpin, center field.
J. M. Hink, short stop.
Hofford, first base.
Martin, left base.
T. E. Mullen, second base.
Schnabel, right field.
Chas. Briere, catcher.
J. Hamilton, left field.
Johnson, pitcher.

West Side
L. Horton, short stop.
Hansen, catcher.
C. Natwick, first base.
Carls, second base.
A. Natwick, left field.
A. Mulroy, third base.
Bryan, center field.
A. Madson, right field.
Akoy, pitcher.

"The Profiles of 1912."

"The Profiles of 1912" which comes to Dally's theater Sunday night, featuring Lulu Welch and Kitty Francis, is a comedy of the best order ever written that makes any pretense toward being a problem play or a prime factor in the spiritual uplift. This comedy has three moral points that are strongly emphasized, and which have a tendency toward making the audience think. But the play was never written to preach a sermon and despite its occasional touches of seriousness it is without a doubt the biggest laughing show on the record. Every act is crammed full of big hearty laughs, catchy music and exceptionally pretty girls. This is a real $1.50 show with 35 people and a carload of scenery but we are going to make the prices within the reach of all, 50c for the best seats in the house.

Free Lectures.

A series of free lectures by Rev. Dr. Weis, a Paulist Missionary, of Chicago, under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus will be given in St. Peter & Paul's Catholic church, commencing Sunday evening, May 19th, at 8 o'clock and each evening thereafter at the same hour to and including Sunday, May 26th.

Non-Catholics are especially invited as the purpose of these lectures is to make a clear and honest exposition of the teachings and practices of the Catholic church, in the interest of fairness and Christian charity. All questions pertaining to the teachings and practices of the Catholic church deposited in the Question Box in the vestibule of the church will be answered.

First Chalmers Car.
The first Chalmers car to be owned in Grand Rapids was received by Otto Roenius last week. The new car is a six cylinder machine, and has all the latest kinks and turns that are calculated to be necessary in order to get any fun out of motoring. These include a self starter, electric light, shock absorbers and several other improvements that do not happen to occur to us just now. Otto has taken the agency for the Chalmers and if you are interested in motor cars at all he will be pleased to give you a demonstration.

Had a Rib Broken.

George Charbonneau had a rib broken on Sunday by being drawn from a rig which he was driving for the Waterman livery. The team became frightened at an approaching automobile and tipped the buggy over, throwing Mr. Charbonneau against a tree. While the hurt was a painful one and will lay him up for a time, it is expected that with proper medical attendance he will suffer no ill effects.

Mr. Langer has three acres in apples, and says that the indications were that he would have about eight hundred bushels before the frost struck the blossoms.

Traffic in Algrettes Declared a Disgrace.
The following article written by Minnie Madden Pliske was recently published in the Milwaukee Sentinel. We repeat it for the benefit of our readers.
Members of the Audubon society are deeply interested in legislation relating to the protection of birds. As Colonel Roosevelt has said: "It is a disgrace to America that we should permit the sale of the algrettes." When some algrette company tried to establish itself in New Jersey, President Wilson, who was then governor of that state, killed the bill that would have allowed this indecent traffic, and expressed himself in these words: "I think New Jersey can get along without blood money."

The algrette is torn from the live mother bird in the nesting season and the little ones are left to starve. "One of the plume hunters of a southern country writes: 'The natives of the country do virtually all of the hunting for feathers. I have seen them frequently pull the plumes from the wounded birds, leaving the crippled birds to die of starvation, unable to respond to the cries of their young in the nests above, which were calling for food. I have known these people to tie and wrap up wounded egrets on the marsh where they would attract the attention of other birds flying by. These decoys are kept in this position until they die of their wounds or from the attacks of insects. I have seen the terrible red ants of that country actually eating out the eyes of these wounded helpless birds tied up by the plume hunters within sound of the call of their young. I could write you many pages of horrors practiced in gathering algrette feathers in Venezuela by the natives for the millinery trade of Paris and New York.'

Intelligent, kind hearted women wear these algrettes, birds of paradise and other hat adornments because they are ignorant as to the manner in which these things are obtained. No self-respecting woman (and above all no mother) will consent to wear algrettes or certain furs, once she has heard of the unspeakable horrors that attend their procurement. Ostrich feathers are humanely obtained and may be worn with a clear conscience.

There is no need for immediate action on the part of those interested in striving to put an end to this notorious algrette traffic in the United States.
President Wilson has this month convened a special session of congress for the purpose of passing the revised tariff act. The officers of the Audubon society have strong grounds for believing that it will be possible to have inserted in this a provision prohibiting the importation of algrettes, provided a wide campaign of publicity can be immediately inaugurated.
No woman who has seen the mother seal skinned alive because the writhings make the work of skinning easier than if it were dead; no woman who has seen the timid crane, with its tongue fast to the metal that has been speared for its capture; no woman who has ever looked to the steel trap ready and set for work; no woman who is half a woman can know of these things and consent to wear them. It is to be hoped that enlightened women in all our cities will meet (as a number of women in New York recently met) in order to discuss ways and means by putting a stop to these unspeakable things.

As to the algrette, "American women can help this movement by notifying milliners that they will withdraw patronage from any millinery establishment that permits the sale of algrettes or other plumes barbarously obtained. Women entering a stranger milliner's establishment can be of the greatest service, if, before making any purchases, they will inquire whether or not algrettes are sold by the establishment.
There will undoubtedly be strong opposition to the proposed law—opposition on the part of merchant milliners who encourage the algrette atrocities as a source of revenue."

The matter is in the hands of the American women

SAVING MADE EASY.

Nickel Plated Banks Loaned Free at the First National Bank.
—The First National bank has started a savings campaign along the same lines as adopted by thousands of banks in the United States for stimulating new accounts in its savings department. While the savings deposits of the bank have grown in a very satisfactory way, yet no extra effort has so far been made to stimulate deposits in this department and it is with the view of extending to its clients all the advantages of this campaign, is made. Today's issue of the Tribune contains a half-page advertisement in which the nature of the plan is explained and the method of opening an account. A handsome nickel plated bank is loaned free of charge to every man or woman who opens an account with the First National bank by making an initial deposit of one dollar or more. The dollars are not given as payment for the bank but starts the account and is credited to the depositor. These banks remain the property of the First National bank, they retaining the key. This latter feature is especially valuable for these nickel plated banks cannot be unlocked except by an officer of the First National bank, and the contents is accumulated to make a deposit. All classes of people will find this savings system a very convenient one and will make saving easier and surer than any other way.—Advertisement.

Worzel-Schreiner.
Kaukauna Sun.—Frank Schreiner has surprised his friends and joined the army of benefactors that appear each spring. He was united in marriage to Miss Anna Worzel of Wilmot, Minn., in St. Mary's church in Milwaukee on Wednesday, April 23, by the Rev. Father Kielinski. They were attended by Miss Anna Schreiner, a sister of the groom and Cy Young, formerly a member of the Kaukauna baseball team.
A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Frank Niesler, in the wedding party and a few close friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Schreiner left for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home to their friends in the Friedman building, flat C, East Chicago.

The bride formerly lived at Stevens Point where Mr. Schreiner became acquainted with her while he was manager of the Stevens Point base ball team. The groom is now employed as checking clerk by the Green Engineering Co., in East Chicago and he does extra work as cartoonist on one of the Chicago papers. He will also play on the East Chicago league ball team.

How to Cook Sparrows.
The following is taken from the current issue of Farm and Fireside: "Now that the United States Government, through the Department of Agriculture, is suggesting that we eat sparrows, perhaps you would like to see the recipe for cooking them suggested by Uncle Sam in his capacity as chief cook for the Nation.
"Cut off the legs, the wings at the outer joint, and neck close to the body; strip off the skin, beginning at the neck; make a cut through the body wall extending from the neck along the backbone till the ribs are severed; then around between the legs to the tail, and remove the viscera. Sparrows may be cooked by any one of the methods used for reed-birds or quail."
Fifty to a hundred sparrows ought to make a fairly good meal for a man who was not too hungry.

A Pretty Tribute.

When Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Champ Clark, was about to sail on a pleasure trip to Europe, she was asked by a representative of the New York American: "What is your ideal of a man?" Miss Clark replied, "my father." And when asked, "Why?" she answered: "It is because he is so intensely human; because he has such a sure vision; because he knows people so well and is kind. Nobody in the world has a kinder heart combined with a better understanding of man than my daddy. He has always been my pal, and all I know has been made real through him. His judgment of men is amazingly accurate and his sympathy is big and broad.
That was a pretty tribute. Probably there are many daughters who find their ideal in their father, and it is well for society that some of the loving opinions find a place in the public prints. It is safe to say that among all the high tributes to his fine qualities Speaker Clark will treasure none as he does the one paid him by his brilliant daughter.

Growing Into Money
2587 was the combined population of Grand Rapids and Centralia in 1885.
3137 was the combined population of both cities in 1890.
4082 was the combined population in 1895.
4493 was the population of the new Grand Rapids in 1900.
6157 in 1905 and 6521 in 1910.
Evidence enough of the continued and substantial growth of one of Wisconsin's most favored cities.
Real Estate buys in this city mean sure profit, either for a home or as an investment.
In 1892 when Centralia and Grand Rapids each had a population of about 1800, Horace Wickham platted what is now known as Wickham's Addition, near the Packing Plant. The land was stony, swampy, and covered with brush. Streets were laid out through the woods and lots staked out. These lots were offered and sold at $25.00 to $35.00 each. Wickham and those who bought from him were, by the "Wise ones" of that day, called crazy. Those lots are now selling at $125.00 and up and those who bought proved they were not so crazy as the "Wise ones" thought.
You are now offered lots in the desirable residence section of this city of nearly 7000 population, the lots lying on good streets and having the advantage of sewer and water connections or lying close to streets having such advantages, at prices nearly as low as those paid in the Wickham Addition in 1892.
Lots near the Robinson Park, your choice at $35.00 each and up, at $5.00 down and $5.00 per month. Do your own thinking, buy some of this property, and make no mistake.

CONSTANTINE MAN OF ACTION

New Grecian Monarch Has Proved Himself Worthy of the Crown He Has Inherited.

Constantine, the new king of Greece, is of Danish and Russian blood, his father having been a son of Christian IX, of Denmark, and his mother being the eldest daughter of Grand Duke Constantine, a brother of Alexander II. King Constantine was born in Athens and brought up under an English governess and German tutor. Later on he went to Berlin, where he received his education as a soldier, being attached to the Second regiment of Prussian foot guards. In 1897 he took command of the Greek troops in the war with Turkey, but his army was crushed in Thessaly. In April last he was appointed Inspector general of the forces, and has since shown himself a soldier of merit. At the moment of his accession he was in Egypt, conducting the military operations for sweeping the Turks out of that province.

ONE CENT CAPITAL

Penny Taken Left by Will Brings Great and Unexpected Mineral Riches.

By MILDRED CAROLINE GOODRIDGE.

"And to my second nephew, Ronald Blair, as a reminder of his remarkable power of memory, I leave the magnificent sum of one penny. As he has seen fit to imitate my peculiarities in private, so may he copy my diligence, beginning life on one cent capital, which is more than I had at the start, and making his own way in the world."

The legate in question listened to the slow, measured tones of Lawyer Jones like one in a dream. The reader of the last will and testament of Jephthah Blair, stern practical man as he was, cast a mournful and sympathetic look at the young man. He liked Blair immensely, as did every one else in the town, unless it was Hugh Telford, seated also in the apartment. He smiled viciously and triumphantly. He was safe ashore while Ronald was floundering in dark waters. The "Blair Plan" was to be given to Telford, together with stocks and bonds valued at $10,000.

"I suppose you feel like cursing Uncle Jephthah," insinuated this precious young schemer and spendthrift. Ronald was pale; disappointment and chagrin showed in his frank, sensitive face. It hardened as he fixed his clear accusing eyes upon his sneering relative.

"No," he replied steadily. "If I was of the cursing sort you might come in for your share, for I understand, now."

He left the lawyer's office as he spoke and a shade of anger and fear crossed the features of Telford. Ronald had admitted that he had expected a substantial legacy. He had every reason to anticipate it. It was cruel, after all his hopes and plans, and his heart sank like lead as he thought of Ruth Mason, his fiancée.

Where should he go for comfort save to her? It was his privilege, his right, and half an hour later he was seated by her side on the porch of the Manson home.

"It must be told to you, dear, he said to the plying angel at his side. "Two years ago when Hugh and I were at college there was a character play. In it was a miserly old fellow. In dress and actions so fully a counterpart of Uncle Jephthah that many recognized it. This came to his ears, and that will was made. In reality Hugh had made the suggestion of the character to a chum, and rather gloated over showing up the old skinflint, as he called his uncle. Then when the matter got public he became frightened and told uncle that it was the culprit."

"But you told me that later everything was explained to Mr. Blair," suggested Ruth.

"That is true, and uncle took me back into his good graces. He even called upon Hugh in my presence to verify his statement that he had destroyed the will made in anger. Then he died suddenly, intestate. Now this will appears. By some trickery I am convinced Hugh preserved it."

"But the law," began Ruth.

"I shall not appeal to it. Let Hugh go to his selfish, cowardly way. As long as I have you what does the matter? We can wait a little while longer, can't we, dear?"

Ruth lifted her sweet, bonny face to his, ineffable tenderness and fidelity in his beautiful depths.

Ronald preserved the penny left to him. Most fellows would have cast it away with an anathema. Ronald knew his old uncle meant to do him justice. It was a rare old Scotch coin. He had the jeweler make a hole in it and suspended it from his watch chain.

The Blair Plan left to his cousin was a valuable property. Just before the death of Mr. Blair a deposit of a rare and valuable clay used in stereotyping and for electrical purposes had been discovered. It was known as oocerite, found elsewhere only in Austria and Utah. If things turned out as they promised, Hugh would some day become a wealthy man.

Adjoining the plat was a twenty-acre patch of sterile land which had been left to Ronald by his mother. It was of so little value that he made no attempt to have it cultivated, but secured a position as an accountant in a near city.

There reached him the first week the disquieting intelligence that Hugh was hanging around the Manson home a good deal. Then he received a letter from Ruth. It read: "Be patient for a year. I am going away and you must not write to me." There was no further word, and Ronald felt that everything of value was fading away from him.

His business went well. The penny seemed to bring him good luck. In a street melee the bullets severely

Standardizing the Longitude.

Heretofore England and the United States have been the only leading countries reckoning from Greenwich. Germany adopted the meridian of Berlin, France that of Paris, and so on. However, in 1911, a congress of the different nations held at Paris, at which it was decided that the places of sun, moon and planets will in future be published in terms of Greenwich time. It is probable that this wounded two innocent bystanders, but one striking the penny, which set and left him unscathed. Then the penny was observed by a loyal old Scotchman, leading to a friendship and a large amount of business.

It was just a year later when Ronald paid a visit to his home town. He learned that the wonderful oocerite vein had run out. Hugh, half-drunken, had sold the mine for a paltry sum of $10,000. He boasted, however, that he was engaged to Ruth and Ronald believed this after her inexplicable silence.

In later years he never forgot a sad and moody manner ending at the barren twenty-acre lot. In going over it he stumbled, his watch chain caught on a bush, and the penny snapped loose and disappeared down a great open crack in the ground.

Ronald had no thought of losing a token which he sincerely treasured. He saw a man digging on an adjoining farm, went over to him and bargained for a "concrete excavation" in quest of the lost memento.

It took some days of treatment to manipulate the dry, crumbling dirt. At a depth of four feet, the bottom of the crack, the penny was produced.

"Hello!" suddenly exclaimed the workman as he scraped off his spade. "Say, if this should be the real vein!"

"The what?" questioned Ronald vaguely.

"The vein of oocerite. Look here—that's the real stuff," and he took up a handful of the scrapings from the spade.

It was "the real stuff," that was proven within the ensuing two days. All the town was on fire over the rare good luck the old penny had brought to Ronald, for the real oocerite vein had been tapped.

Ronald was standing on the land that promised so much in the yellow dusk of the fading day a few evenings later, when a familiar figure came up over the rise in the landscape.

His heart stood still as she approached. Then a bitter thought came into his mind—Ruth had heard of his good fortune.

"The year is over," she said brightly as she approached him. "Did they never tell you? It was Hugh Telford who told his fortune at my feet, and my foolish father encouraged his suit. Finally it was agreed that I should take a year to decide, away from both of you. As if a year or a thousand could make me forget—you!"

And she lifted the old penny from the hand of her lover, the lucky penny of old Jephthah Blair, and kissed it.

TEACHING CHILDREN TO SWIM

Valuable Course Has Been Added to the Public Schools of the City of Pittsburgh.

A course in swimming has been added to the required studies in the public schools of Pittsburgh, and Dr. Watson L. Savage is quoted as saying that he will see to it that every child in the city is taught to swim. This is a step in public education that deserves the hearty approval of every parent and every seeker of the public welfare.

"To ride, to shoot and to speak the truth" was the ancient Persian ideal of education. Needless to say, this was for boys only; girls in this day fare better than when "the maxim" was made. They are taught to exercise as well as to develop their brains nowadays. Alike boys and girls ought to learn to swim, and the public should provide means of teaching that most valuable and pleasurable accomplishment.

Swimming is a splendid sport; it develops muscles rarely used in other sports and its usefulness is beyond question. Yet comparatively few persons learn to swim. There are sailors who have spent many years on the water but are unable to keep afloat when suddenly cast into the element with which they ought to be thoroughly acquainted. Drownings are far too numerous; knowledge of how to swim would greatly lessen their number. May the time soon come when every child who passes through the public schools will have learned how to swim.

Nelson's War Stores Found.

An interesting find is reported from Rome. Some fishermen declare that a shepherd has found near Cape Tessa, the extreme northern point of Sardinia, a large cave, containing an enormous quantity of powder and other war stores.

It is thought probable that the stores were placed in the cave by Nelson when he was watching the French fleet at Toulon in the operations which ended in the battle of Trafalgar. Nelson used Sardinia as his base of supplies, and it was while he was refitting there that Villeneuve escaped from Toulon and got clear away to Martinique, whence he returned to European waters, where he was at last brought to bay. The Italian military authorities are investigating the find.

Had Two Points of Beauty.

Tasmania's pretty girls of European lineage have never been tempted to follow the fashion of the native Tasmanian women, who had all their hair removed with a flint and wet bald. The last pure blooded Tasmanian woman died in 1878, aged seventy-six; the last man in 1876, aged thirty-four. A traveler says that the native had two fine points—eyes and teeth. The eyes were prominent and often of great beauty and brilliancy, and a dentist of wide experience knew of no teeth equal to the Tasmanian's for strength, size and enamel. But the nose was bridgeless, the chin "ran off" and the upper jaw protruded.

Twisted Title.

When the baby became tired of her candy and placed nearly a whole stick on the table Sister Marjorie took up the sweet and began to eat it. This made the baby cry lustily. "You don't want it, and still you don't want me to have it," said Marjorie. "Goodness, baby, you're just like the dog in the stall I read about in my story book."

GRACEFUL IN DESIGN

COSTUME OF GREY CHARMEUSE PARTICULARLY APPEALING.

Embodies All the Best Style Features of the Season—Hat and Parasol to Match—Add Brightness to the Toilette.

A costume shown here of grey charmeuse must appeal to everyone of refined taste. The style features of the season are embodied in it, and it is designed along very graceful lines, following those of the figure, cleverly. The draped skirt is bungee-like and graceful except when managed carefully. Such good management is shown in this case. The round neck with turn-back collar admits a glimpse of lace if desired. The drop shoulder has a small puffed sleeve terminating in a turn-back cuff. The collar and cuffs are made of brocade, matching the gown in color. The modest split or curved seam at the left is about ankle high. Grey silk stockings and satin slippers are worn with the gown.

A finishing touch is shown in the hat and parasol made to match. They brighten the toilette delightfully. The hat is of loghorn with a drape of checked silk and trimming of broad velvet ribbon with a big cluster of roses at the back. For this particular gown the combination could not be better. The silk is in black and white check with orange border and the roses are in shades of cerise mounted with broad velvet ribbon in black.

Neckwear Styles.

The fact that a large distribution of low collars is expected during the coming season is resulting in the suggestion of a host of new styles, according to the Dry Goods Economist. Deep shoulder-pointed numbers continue in the lead. Cream batiste, of the "singer" quality beautifully embroidered, with fine hemstitching and dainty beadings and laces, are used in the development of the foremost models. Cream batiste is also used in some of the handsomest collars with jabots. The collar portions follow largely the deep shoulder-point idea, and the jabots are of conservative size and style. Plain pleated jabots are especially liked. Net, figured and dotted crepes, plain and fancy voiles and crepe de chine are among the other prominent materials employed.

COMFORTER FOR BABY'S COT

Pretty Adornment Expensive to Buy, but May Easily Be Made in the Leisure Moments.

An exclusive shop is displaying a lovely comforter for baby which can easily be duplicated at home. It is of white china silk trimmed with small pink roses. The materials required for this fascinating article are two yards of silk, three and one-half yards of pink ribbon, and one pound of cotton batting.

Take one yard of the silk and mark the neck of the roses. Arrange these in seven rows across the width and seven across the length, alternating four and three roses. Start the rows four inches from the edge.

Baste one piece of the silk to a layer of cotton before joining the other piece. Sew through the two pieces of silk and the cotton at the places marked for the roses, and neatly whipstitch the four sides of the comforter together. To fashion the ribbon roses take one-eighth of a yard of ribbon a half inch in width. Turn under the edges and crease the ribbon at the center. Roll the ribbon around until alternating four and three roses. The ribbon is formed and sew firmly in position. Swirl the remainder of the ribbon loosely around the heart of the rose until it is completed.

Fasten a rose securely to each place marked on the comforter. This is a lovely gift for the layette, for it is extremely dainty and not difficult to make. Crepe de chine or satin may be substituted for the silk if desired.—Boston Globe.

A few plated skirts are seen in the tailored suits.

Trimming for Small Hats.

Soft and airy are the crowns of hats covered with maline or crepe. Sometimes the material extends over the entire shape. It may be placed in folds or gathered, over both the crown and the side crown, and upper brim are covered with maline or crepe, and the top of the crown and under brim are of milan or hemp.

Printed crepes in oriental colors are effectively used in the latter form. Pippings of a contrasting color usually head the top of the side crown covering. Maline or crepe in a contrasting color is fitted over the upper portion of many small shapes of milan, hemp, hair or leghorn, and sometimes this soft material is made in a loose puffed effect, giving the appearance of a soft tam-o'-shanter.

New Embroidery Bandings.

The new embroidery bandings are distinguished. Motifs of what seem at first glance to be rich lace are incorporated in grounds of velvet embroidered linen and batiste; but by-and-by one realizes that the "whole fabric" is injured.

AFFECT THE MIND STRANGELY

Important Part That Various Colors Play in Life Has Not Been Sufficiently Recognized.

Have you ever stopped to think of the important part that color plays in your life? Possibly not, but psychologists and some medical specialists—and they are paying more and more attention to the subject—say that colors have all sorts of curious effects to answer for.

After a revolutionary outbreak some years ago in Russia, the fact came out that the punishment meted out to several of the leaders of the rising was confinement in cells whose walls were painted violet. A few weeks spent in these cells turned keen-witted revolutionaries into dull, stupid fellows, who moved and spoke as dying men, after they have lost the power over brain and body.

The effect of red is even more striking, red is said to produce restlessness, and excitability, and no special diet will allow a highly nervous patient to remain long in a room that is either papered or furnished in that shade. And dressmakers complain that work done for any length of time upon a garment that is dotted red will cause the seamstress to become tired, have a headache, and feel nauseated. Perhaps that is why blue, brown and white have their turns as the "most popular color," while red is always a matter of individual taste, except in the matter of occasional trimming.

MADE TO SUIT ALL COSTUMES

Waists of Various Materials Intended to Complement the Skirt With Which They Are Worn.

The waists now being featured for wear with tailored suits are, according to the Dry Goods Economist, made of matching chiffon, crepe de chine, satin or messaline. White net and lace waists are also good style for supplementing the more dressy tailored suits, for many departments the models designed for special wear are grouped together on one table, or in the part of the counter.

Waists for traveling, for athletic wear or for general utility purposes are made along the lines of the manly shirt. In New York stores, such waists in dark-colored crepe de chine, messaline, brocade and fancy silks are strongly featured.

In the washable varieties of crepe de chine, jap silks and corded silks the ground is usually white, marked off with stripes in bright colors. Middy blouses, finished with a broad band over the hips, are strongly featured for slender young women and girls. They are advertised by retailers as Balkan middy blouses.

OLD CHINESE BELT BUCKLES

Among the Most Alluring of the Offerings in Antiques, Which Are Just Now All the Rage.

Oblong belt buckles of ancient Chinese workmanship are among the alluring offerings in antique. The buckles of metal heavily plated with dull, greenish gold, are set with huge circles and squares of green, blue, amber and rose mottled quartz, so highly polished that it appears to be overlaid with crystal. On the under side the buckles are of the glaze metal, richly chased or engraved, and near one end of each is a slide through which the belt-ribbon may be forced, while at the opposite end is a broad, flat sort of book, which readily catches into and holds the girle's fabric. It is possible, by joining four to six of these buckles, to make a wonderfully unique looking girle-of the sort now worn with "classical" tea gowns and with tailored white crash or toweling frocks. The ornaments bear the earmarks of great age, their fine workmanship is obvious at a glance and they are not prohibitively costly.

PRETTY HAT

Black straw forms this wide brimmed hat. The trimming is composed of blue velvet ribbon, which is pleated round the crown. A velvet rosette at the front completes the trimming.

Delicate Perfume.

Some of the richest and most expensive perfumes can be made in the following way: Select your blossoms, whatever essence you desire, pluck from the stems and drop into a jar half filled with almond or olive oil. Allow these flowers or leaves to lie for 24 hours in the oil, then squeeze through a cheesecloth bag into a perfectly clean glass dish. Repeat this operation until you have procured the strength you desire. Pour this essence into a new jar and thoroughly mix with an equal quantity of pure rectified spirit. Let this mixture stand for three weeks, shaking and mixing it thoroughly every day. After this process it must be again strained, and then it is ready to be bottled for use.

IF HE WERE A RELATIVE

Observance of Colored Man Really Offered Some Good Ideas for Worthy Reflection.

An official of one of the departments at Washington says that while going to luncheon one afternoon he saw a military funeral passing down Pennsylvania avenue. As the pageant passed the official was standing on the curb, hat in hand, and noting with interest the reversed arms, the flag-draped coffin, and the riderless horse behind some one touched him on the elbow and said: "I hope you'll excuse me, boss, but would you mind telling me whether the dead soldier was anything to you?"

"Why, no," answered the official, smiling in spite of himself, as he turned and bobbed a solemn-looking darky of perhaps sixty years of age.

"Excuse me again, boss," continued the negro, "but you kinder looked that sorry I thought, maybe he was something to you?"

"He was a brave soldier," answered the official.

The darky said nothing for a moment. Finally, with a sigh, he added: "Wouldn't it be grand, boss, mournin' fer a soldier like that, s'posin' he was something to you?"

A CLERGYMAN'S TESTIMONY.

The Rev. Edmund Heslop, of Wigton, Pa., suffered from Dropsy for years. His limbs and feet were swollen and puffed. He had heart fluttering, was dizzy and exhausted at the least exertion. Hands and feet were cold and he had such a dragging sensation across the joints that it was difficult to move.

After using 5 boxes of Dodds Kidney Pills the swelling disappeared and he felt himself again. He says he has been benefited and blessed by the use of Dodds Kidney Pills. Several months later he wrote: I have not changed my faith in your remedy since the above statement was authorized. Correspond with Rev. E. Heslop about this wonderful remedy.

Exquisite Agency.

"It was, to say the least of it," a London letter remarks, "just a little bit awkward that the electric light went out the other evening at the town house of a presumably wealthy widow who had been doing a good deal of political entertaining. The guests, to the number of a dozen, had just finished their soup when the unfortunate incident occurred. The scramble to find a sufficient number of candles so that the dinner might proceed was attended with a great deal of difficulty and no little amusement. The butler, who is described as being a bit new to his job, was immediately told to telephone to the electric company, report the catastrophe and demand attention to the matter. It was a trying moment for the guests when he returned in a red riding room and announced in the Cockney accent: 'Please, my lady, the gentleman what's on the telephone says they sent several warning letters unless the account was paid active steps would have to be taken.'"

DANDRUFF COVERED SCALP

3002 Cass St., St. Louis, Mo.—"For five years I suffered with itching of my body and scalp. My trouble began with a rash on my lower limbs which was very annoying, and my scalp was literally covered with dandruff. My hair used to come out by the handfuls and the itching of my body and scalp was terrible. I had used almost all the skin remedies on the market, with no results, when I wrote for a little Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it gave me instant relief. Within one month's use of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, gently rubbing Cuticura Ointment on my scalp and coming out and I have not lost a minute of sleep since using the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, which entirely cured me of itching of my body and scalp in its worst form. I also find the Cuticura Soap a benefit in shaving." (Signed) Charles Judin, Dec. 8, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston." Adv.

Satisfied the Professor.

The story is told of a college professor who was noted for his concentration of mind. The professor was returning home one night from a scientific meeting, still pondering over the subject. He had reached his room in safety when he heard a noise which seemed to come from under the bed. "Is some one there?" he asked.

"No, professor," answered the intruder, who knew the professor's peculiarities. "I am a ghost, and I was positive some one was under my bed," commented the learned man.

Young Grammarian.

A teacher gave an examination of the comparison of adjectives and adverbs following a series of lessons upon that subject. One little boy was called upon to compare the word "far." With much shuffling of embarrassed feet, he replied: "Positive far; comparative, farther; superlative, grandfather."

Over-Night Relief for Constipation

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still graver trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience. Legions of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mr. A. B. Danner, 326 Riley St., Harrisburg, Pa., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want and sleep well." Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with its merits.

Men of Big Hearts.

(Pittsfield Record)
Fraternal woman is protected the world over. It seems to matter little whether it is in mid-ocean, with the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" as a giant steamer is going to the bottom, when men give their places in the boats to women and babies; wives husbands tear themselves from wives and families and wait their inevitable doom on the decks of the slowly sinking ship; or whether it is the sad death of a paper mill employee in the Wisconsin Valley, leaving a young widow with but the heritage of seven small children and a dark and gloomy outlook for the future.

But men will be men, and can be depended upon in case of dire stress to make way for the frailer sex. While our Wisconsin men have not been called upon to give up their lives, and the stage setting is not as grandly eloquent as was the cast for the heroes of the Titanic, yet those who were companions of Walter Parmeter, have shown that their hearts are as big and capable of that same strain of gallantry in their unique and unostentatious way of providing for the stricken widow of a fellow laborer.

The Consolidated Company of Grand Rapids, had placed offers of $50 each for the finding of the bodies of the drowned men. Both these rewards were promptly turned over to Mrs. Parmeter. And one of these reward checks had been made out to the county treasurer, Nate Anderson. Further, the Consolidated Paper Co., and the number is legion as it comes down to the most mental workmen, have agreed to donate a day's labor that the weak shall be succored and a way paved for the education and up-bringing of an unusually large family.

Bless these thoughtful and big-hearted men, and who can gain credit for their reward will be ever as glorious as that of those brave men of the Titanic.

The funeral of Ralph W. Parson was held from the house at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Rev. James Blake officiating. Interment followed in the family lot in the Plover cemetery. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in this vicinity, about 40 teams being in the procession. At the time of his death Mr. Parson was district clerk and town assessor. He was a member of Plover Colony, No. 42, of the Beaver Reserve Fund Society. The pallbearers were chosen from that society. They were Orel Pike, Elmer DeJans, Leo Simonds, Levi McGraw, Bert Gilman, and Ernest Krugger. The deceased came here from Ohio with his parents when a small boy and grew to manhood here. In company with his brother, N. C. Parson, he owned and operated one of the finest farms in Portage county. He was of a kindly, pleasant disposition, one who made and kept friends—in fact no one knew Ralph but to love and respect him. He leaves a widow and two little boys, aged five and three years, and aged mother, two sisters, Mrs. Dow Gilman of Plover and Mrs. May Earler of North Dakota and two brothers, Walter of Plover, and Norman, who lives on the farm. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and among them were a wreath from the school board and a wreath from the Beaver Colony.

After putting in four years on his device, R. C. Bartlett of Wausau has secured a patent on his "bug and worm collector," which he says will by means of a blower pipe system which is run by a gasoline engine attached to the machine, draw potato bugs off the plants into the hoods. When the engine is in operation a strong suction is created in each hood and the bugs which may be knocked off by the hood in its passage over the plant as well as those clinging to the plant are drawn through the tubes into the fan casing. The machine is pulled by one horse and covers two, four or six rows of potatoes at a time. The weight of the machine is four hundred pounds.

Too many varieties are now being grown in the state. To remedy this situation uniform stock of standard market varieties of proved worth will be selected at most of the more important potato shipping points of the state. Nearly 800 bushels of Rural New Yorker, Burbank, Peerless, Early Rose, Early Ohio and Triumph, were distributed by the agricultural college this spring. Special meetings of the potato growers have also been arranged, at which growers are urged to unite upon a few standard varieties.

About Trout.
"Charles Dudley Warner, in his "A Fight with a Trout" described the trout fly:

"The trout fly does not resemble any known species of insect. It is a conventionalized creation, as we say of ornamentation. The theory is that fly fishing being a high art, the fly must not have a tame imitation of nature but an artist to construct one; and not every bungler can take a bit of red flannel, a peacock's feather, a flush of tinsel thread, a cock's plume, a section of a hen's wing, and fabricate a tiny fly, yet, as a detail, it is a tiny object that will not look like any fly, but still suggest the universal conventional fly."

A son of Anak, confronted with this indubitable evidence of the effectiveness of post-impressionism exclaimed that when he wanted trout he took fishing worms and got them, but others than Philistines will pause for thought.

Mr. Warner anticipated the post-impressionists and cubists by a couple of generations and saw that the trout imagination "got" the rat and that the trout intelligence demanded it. A trout would have grasped the "Nude Descending a Staircase."

Evidently the place for the international exhibit of modern painters was in an aquarium.

SAVING MADE EASY.

Nickel Plated Banks Loaned Free at the First National Bank.
—The First National Bank has started a savings campaign along the same lines as adopted by thousands of banks in the United States for stimulating new accounts in its savings department. While the savings deposits of the bank have grown in a very satisfactory way, yet no extra effort has so far been made to stimulate deposits in this department and it is with the view of extending to its clients all the conveniences that this campaign is made. Today's issue of the Tribune contains a half page advertisement in which the nature of the plan is explained and the method of opening an account. A handsome nickel plated bank is loaned free of charge to every man or woman who opens an account with the First National bank by making an initial deposit of one dollar or more. The deposit is not given as payment for the bank but starts the account and is credited to the depositor. These banks remain the property of the First National bank, they retaining the key. This latter feature is especially valuable for these nickel plated banks cannot be unlocked except by an officer of the First National bank, and the contents are accumulated to make a deposit. All classes of people will find this savings system a very convenient one and will make saving easier and surer than any other way.—Advertisement.

A Pretty Tribute.

When Miss Genevieve Clark, daughter of Speaker Champ Clark, was about to sail on a pleasure trip to Europe, she was asked by a representative of the New York American: "What is your ideal of a man?" Miss Clark replied, "my father." And when asked, "Why?" she answered: "It's because he is so intensely human; because he has such a sure vision; because he knows people so well and is kind. Nobody in the world has a kinder heart combined with a better understanding of men than my father. He has always been my 'pal' and all I know has been made real through him. His judgment of men is amazingly accurate and his sympathy is big and broad."
That was a pretty tribute. Probably there are many daughters who find their ideal in their father, and it is well for society that some of the loving opinions find a place in the public prints. It is safe to say that among all the high tributes to his fine qualities, Speaker Clark will treasure none as he does the one paid him by his brilliant daughter.

CONSTANTINE MAN OF ACTION

New Grecian Monarch Has Proved Himself Worthy of the Crown He Has Inherited.

Constantine, the new king of Greece, is of Danish and Russian blood, his father having been a son of Christian IX, of Denmark, and his mother being the eldest daughter of Grand Duke Constantine, a brother of Alexander II. King Constantine was born in Athens and brought up under an English governess and German and Greek tutors. Later on he went to Berlin, where he received his education as a soldier, being attached to the Second regiment of Prussian foot guards. In 1897 he took command of the Greek troops in the war with Turkey, but his army was crushed in Thessaly. In April last he was appointed inspector general of the forces, and has since shown himself a soldier of merit. At the moment of his accession he was in Ephesus, conducting the military operations for sweeping the Turks out of that province.

By MILDRED CAROLINE GOODRIDGE.

"And to my second nephew, Ronald Blair, as a reminder of his remarkable powers of memory, I leave the munificent sum of one penny. As he has seen fit to imitate my peculiarities in private, so may he copy my diligence, beginning his life on one cent capital, which is more than I had at the start, and making his own way in the world."

The legatee in question listened to the slow, measured tones of Lawyer Jones like one in a dream. The reader of the last will and testament of Jephthah Blair, stern, practical man as he was, cast a mournful and sympathetic look at the young man. He liked Blair immensely, as did every one else in the town, unless it was Hugh Telford seated also in the apartment. He smiled viciously and triumphantly. He was safe ashore while Ronald was foundering in dark waters. The "Blair Plan" was to be given to Telford, together with stocks and bonds valued at $10,000.

"I suppose you feel like cursing Uncle Jephthah," murmured this precocious young schemer and spendthrift. Ronald was pale; disappointment and chagrin showed in his frank, sensitive face. It hardened as he fixed his clear accusing eyes upon his sneering relative.

"No," he replied steadily. "If I was of the cursing sort you might come in for your share, for I understand, now."

He left the lawyer's office as he spoke and a shade of anger and fear crossed the features of Telford. Ronald had admitted that he had expected a substantial legacy. He had every reason to anticipate it. It was cruel, after all his hopes and plans, and his heart sank like lead as he thought of Ruth Mason, his fiancée.

Where should he go for comfort save to her? It was his privilege, his right, and half an hour later he was alone on the porch of the Mason home. "It must be between you and me; all that I have to tell you, dear," he said to the pitying angel at his side. "Two years ago when Hugh and I were at college there was a character play. In it was a miserly old fellow, in dress and actions so fully a counterpart of Uncle Jephthah that many recognized it. This came to his ears, and that will command in the reality of life had made the suggestion of the character to a chum, and rather gleefully over 'showing up the old skunk' as he called his uncle. Then when the matter got public he became frightened and told uncle that 'I was the culprit'."

"But you told me that later everything was explained to Mr. Blair," suggested Ruth.

"That is true, and uncle took me back into his good graces. He even called upon Hugh in my presence to verify his statement that he had destroyed the will made in anger. Then he died suddenly, intestate. Now this will appears. By some trickery I am convinced Hugh preserved it."

"But the law," began Ruth.

"I shall not appeal to it. Let Hugh go his selfish, cowardly way. As long as I have you what does the rest matter? We can wait a little while longer we can, dear."

Ruth lifted her sweet bonny face to his, ineffable tenderness and fidelity in its beautiful depths.

Ronald preserved the penny left to him. Most fellows would have cast it away with an anathema. Ronald knew his old uncle meant to do him better. It was a rare old Scotch coin. He had the law to make a hole in it and suspended it from his watch chain.

The Blair Plan left to his cousin was a valuable property. Just before the death of Mr. Blair a deposit of a rare and valuable clay used in stereotyping and for electrical purposes had been discovered. It was known as pzoeretic, found elsewhere only in Andia and Tibet. It hung turned out as they promised, Hugh would some day become a wealthy man.

Adjoining the plot was a tract of sterile land which had been left to Ronald by his mother. It was of so little value that he made it at once of it cultivated, but secured a position as an accountant in a near city.

There reached him the first week the distinctive intelligence that Hugh was hanging around the Mason home, a good deal. Then he received a letter from Ruth. It read: "The patient for a year. I am going away and you must not write to me." There was no further word and Ronald felt that everything he valued was fading away from him.

His business went well. The penny seemed to bring him good luck. In a street reeled the bullets severely

Standardizing the Longitude.

Heretofore England and the United States have been the only leading countries reckoning from Greenwich, Germany adopted the meridian of Berlin, France that of Paris, and so on. However, in 1911, a congress of the makers of nautical almanacs of the different nations was held at Paris, at which it was decided that the position of sun, moon and planets will in future be published in terms of Greenwich time by all prominent national ephemerides. It is probable that this action will have the effect of causing all chart, map and atlas makers to also adopt the Greenwich meridian.—Christian Herald.

Zoologically Mixed.

A little boy near here was given a pair of white rats, and when they had their first litter of young ones he took them to his little sister to the cellar to see them. She came running upstairs all excited and called to her mother: "Mamma! Mamma! Come quick! The hen rat has nine kittens."

wounded two innocent bystanders, but one striking the penny glinted off and left him unscathed. Then the penny was observed by a loyal old Scotchman, leading to a friendship and a large amount of business.

It was just a year later when Ronald paid a visit to his home town. He learned that the wonderful ozeretic vein had run out. Hugh had pretty nearly dissipated all his ready money. He boasted, however, that he was engaged to Ruth and Ronald believed this after her inexplicable silence.

In later years he never forgot a sad and moody ramble ending at the barren twenty-acre lot. In going over it he stumbled, his watch chain caught on a bush, and the penny snapped loose and disappeared down a great open crack in the ground.

Ronald had no thought of losing a token which he sincerely treasured. He saw a man digging on an adjoining farm, went over to him and bargained for a careful excavation in quest of the lost memento.

It took the labor of treatment to manipulate the dirt, crumbling dirt. At a depth of four feet, the bottom of the crack, the penny was produced.

GRACEFUL IN DESIGN

COSTUME OF GREY CHARMEUSE PARTICULARLY APPEALING.

Embodies All the Best Style Features of the Season—Hat and Parasol to Match Add Brightness to the Toilette.

A costume shown here of grey charmeuse must appeal to everyone of refined taste. The style features of the season are embodied in it, and it is designed along very graceful lines, following those of the figure cleverly. The draped skirts are bungee-like and graceful except when managed carefully. Such good management is shown in this case. The round neck with turn back collar admits a glimpse of lace if desired. The drop shoulder is a small perfect sleeve terminating in a turn-back cuff. The collar and cuffs are made of brocade matching the gown in color. The modest split or curved seam at the left is about ankle high. Grey silk stockings and satin slippers are worn with the gown.

A finishing touch is shown in the hat and parasol made to match. They brighten the toilette delightfully. The hat is of leghorn with a drapery of checked silk and trimming of broad velvet ribbon with a big cluster of roses at the back. For this particular gown the combination could not be better. The silk is in black and white check with corse border and the roses are in shades of cerise mounted with broad velvet ribbon in black.

Neckwear Styles.

The fact that a large distribution of low collars is expected during the coming season is resulting in the presentation of a host of new styles, according to the Dry Goods Economist. Deep shoulder-point numbers continue in the lead. Cream batiste of the sheerest quality beautifully embroidered, with fine hemstitching as well as to be developed their beauty. Alike boys and girls ought to learn to swim, and the public should provide means of teaching that most valuable and pleasurable accomplishment.

Swimming is a splendid sport, it develops muscles rarely used in other sports and its usefulness is beyond question. Yet comparatively few persons learn to swim. There are sailors who have spent many years on the reality of water but keep aloof when suddenly cast into the element with which they ought to be thoroughly acquainted. Drawings are far too numerous; knowledge of how to swim would greatly lessen their number. May the time soon come when every child who passes through the public schools will have learned how to swim.

Nelson's War Stores Found.

An interesting find is reported from Rome. Some fishermen declare that a shepherd has found near Cape Testa the extreme northern point of Sardinia, a large cave, containing an enormous quantity of powder and other war stores.

It is thought probable that the stores were placed in the cave by Nelson when he was watching the French fleet at Toulon in the operations which ended in the battle of Trafalgar. Nelson used Sardinia as his base of supplies, and it was while he was refitting there that Villeneuve escaped from Toulon and got clear away to Martinique, whence he returned to European waters, where he was at last brought to bay. The Italian military authorities are investigating the find.

Had Two Points of Beauty.

Tasmania's pretty girls of European lineage have never been tempted to follow the fashion of the Tasmanian women, who had all their hair removed with a flint and wet bald.

The last pure blooded Tasmanian woman died in 1876, aged seventy-six; the last man in 1876, aged thirty-four. A traveler says that the native had two fine points—eyes and teeth. The eyes were prominent and often of great beauty and brilliancy, and a dentist of wide experience knew of no teeth equal to the Tasmanian's for strength, size and enamel. But the nose was bridgeless, the chin "ran off" and the upper jaw protruded.

Twisted Titts.

When the baby became tired of her candy and placed nearly a whole stick on the table Sister Marjorie took up the sweet and began to eat it.

"This made the baby cry lustily."

"You don't want it, and still you don't want me to have it," said Marjorie; "goodness, baby, you're just like the 'dog in the stall' I read about in my story book."

AFFECT THE MIND STRANGELY

Important Part That Various Colors Play in Life Has Not Been Sufficiently Recognized.

Have you ever stopped to think of the important part that color plays in your life? Recently, but, psychologists and some medical specialists—and they are paying more and more attention to the subject—say that some colors have all sorts of curious effects to answer for.

After a revolutionary outbreak some years ago in Russia, the fact came out that the punishment meted out to several of the leaders of the rising was confinement in cells whose walls were painted violet. A few weeks spent in these cells turned keen-witted restless men into dull, stupid fellows, who moved and spoke as dying men do after they have lost the power over brain and body.

The effect of red is even more striking. Red is said to produce restlessness and excitability, and no special list will allow a highly nervous patient to remain long in a room that is either painted or furnished in that shade. And dressmakers complain that to work for any length of time upon a garment that is tinted red will cause the seamstress to become tired, have a headache, and feel nauseated. Perhaps that is why blue, brown and white have their turns as the "most popular color," while red is always a matter of individual taste, except in the matter of occasional trimming.

MADE TO SUIT ALL COSTUMES

Waists of Various Materials Intended to Complement the Skirt With Which They Are Worn.

The waists now being featured for wear with tailored suits are, according to the Dry Goods Economist, made of matching chiffon, crepe de chine, satin or messaline. White net and lace waists are also good style for supplementing the more dressy tailored suits. In many departments the models have been doing a good deal of political entertaining. The guests, to the number of a dozen, had just finished their soup when the unfortunate incident occurred. The scramble to find a sufficient number of candles so that the dinner might proceed was attended with a great deal of difficulty and no little amusement.

Old Chinese Belt Buckles

Among the Most Alluring of the Offerings in Antiques, Which Are Just Now All the Rage.

Oblong belt buckles of ancient Chinese workmanship are among the alluring offerings in antique. The buckles are usually heavily plated with dull, greenish gold, are set with huge diamonds and squares of green, blue, amber and rose mottled quartz so highly polished that it appears to be overlaid with crystal. On the under side of the buckle are of the glided metal richly chased or engraved, and near one end of each is a slide through which the belt ribbon may be forced, while at the opposite end is a broad, flat sort of hook, which readily catches into and holds the girl's fabric. It is possible, by joining four to six of these buckles, to make a wonderfully unique looking girdle of the sort now worn with "classic" tea gowns and with tailored white crash or toweling frocks. The ornaments bear the earmarks of great age, their fine workmanship is obvious at a glance and they are not prohibitively costly.

COMFORTER FOR BABY'S COIT

Pretty Adornment Expensive to Buy, but May Easily Be Made in the Leisure Moments.

An exclusive shop is displaying a lovely comforter for baby which can easily be duplicated at home. It is of white china silk trimmed with small pink roses. The materials required for this fascinating article are two yards of silk, three and one-half yards of pink ribbon and one pound of cotton batting.

Take one yard of the silk and mark the position of the roses. Arrange these in seven rows across the width and seven across the length, alternating four and three roses. Start the rows four inches from the edge.

Baste one piece of the silk to a layer of cotton before joining the other piece. Sew through the two pieces of silk and the cotton at the places marked for the roses, and neatly whipstitch the four sides of the comforter together. To fashion the ribbon roses take one-eighth of a yard of ribbon a half inch in width. Turn under the edges and crease the ribbon at the center. Roll the ribbon around until a center is formed and sew firmly in position. Swirl the remainder of the ribbon loosely around the heart of the rose until it is completed.

This is a lovely gift for the layette, for it is extremely durable and not difficult to make. Crepe de chine or satin may be substituted for the silk if desired.—Boston Globe

A few plaited skirts are seen in the tailored suits.

Trimming for Small Hats.

Soft and airy are the crowns of hats covered with maline or crepe. Sometimes the material extends over the entire shape. It may be placed in folds or gathers, over both the crown and upper brim. Sometimes a portion of the side crown and upper brim are covered with maline or crepe, and the top of the crown and under-brim are of milan or hemp.

Printed crepes in oriental colors are effectively used in the latter form. Pippings of a contrasting color usually head the top of the side crown covering. Maline or crepe in a contrasting color is fitted over the upper portion of many small shapes of milan, hemp, hair or leghorn, and sometimes this soft material is made in a loose puff effect, giving the appearance of a soft tam-o'-shanter.

New Embroidery Bandings.

The new embroidery bandings are distinguished. Motifs of what seem at first glance to be rich lace are incorporated in grounds of velvet embroidered linen and batiste; and by-and-by one realizes that the whole fabric

IF HE WERE A RELATIVE

Observance of Colored Man Really Offered Some Good Ideas for Worthy Reflection.

An official of one of the departments at Washington says that while going to his luncheon one afternoon he saw a military funeral passing down Pennsylvania avenue. As the pageant passed the official was standing on the curb, hat in hand, and noting with interest the reversed arms, the flag-draped coffin, and the riders on horse behind some one touched him on the elbow and said: "I would you mind telling me, boss, but would you mind telling me whether the dead soldier was anything to you?"

"Why, no," answered the official, smiling in spite of himself, as he turned and beheld a solemn-looking darky of perhaps sixty years of age.

"Excuse me again, boss," continued the negro, "but you kinder looked that sorry I thought maybe he was something to you?"

"He was a brave soldier," answered the official.

The darky said nothing for a moment. Finally, with a sigh, he added: "Wouldn't it be grand, boss, mournin' for a man like that, 'sposin' he was something to you?"

Over-Night Relief for Constipation

A Small Dose on Retiring and You Are Well and Happy by Morning

It is only natural that the simplest of ailments should be the most general, and so we have a whole nation suffering from constipation and indigestion, for they are closely allied. But common as constipation is many people do not seem to know they have it. They will complain of headache, drowsiness or biliousness, all unconscious of the cause of the trouble.

You should have a full and free movement at least once a day. If you pass a day you are constipated, and the result will be that you will catch a cold easily or have a more serious ailment. To cure the constipation and forestall still greater trouble take a dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night before retiring and by morning relief will come, without disturbance from sleep or any inconvenience.

Legion of people use it regularly in such emergencies, some of them formerly chronic invalids who have suffered from constipation all their lives. Mr. A. B. Danner, 325 Riley St., Harrisburg, Pa., writes: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me almost instant relief from stomach and bowel trouble. I now eat anything I want, and sleep well. Many others will tell you that they have tried most things recommended for this purpose but have found Syrup Pepsin the only one always reliable. A bottle can be obtained at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar, the latter size being bought by families already familiar with the merits."

Syrup Pepsin is mild, pleasant-tasting, and non-grainy. Mothers give it to their infants, and yet it is effective in grown-ups. It is for everyone who suffers from any form of stomach, liver or bowel trouble, constipation, dyspepsia, biliousness, etc. Its action will so delight you that you will forever avoid harsh cathartics, purgatives, pills and salts.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin and you would like to make a personal trial of it before buying it in the regular way of a druggist, send your address—a postal will do—to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 363 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Men of Big Hearts.

(Pittsville Record)

Frail woman is protected the world over. It seems to matter little whether it is in mid ocean, with the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" as a giant steamer is going to the bottom, when men give their places in the boats to women and babies; where husbands tear themselves from wives and families and wait their inevitable doom on the decks of the slowly sinking ship, or whether it is the sad death of a poor mill employee in the Wisconsin Valley, leaving a young widow with but the heritage of seven small children and a dark and gloomy outlook for the future.

But men will be men, and can be depended upon in case of dire stress to make way for the frailer sex. While our Wisconsin men have not been called upon to give up their lives, and the stage setting is not as grandly eloquent as was the cast for the heroes of the Titanic, yet those who were companions of Walter Parmeter, have shown that their hearts are as big and capable of that same strain of gallantry, in their unique and unostentatious way of providing for the stricken widow of a fellow laborer.

The Consolidated Company of Grand Rapids, has placed offers of $50 each for the finding of the bodies of the drowned men. Both these rewards were promptly turned over to Mrs. Parmeter. And one of these reward checks had been made out to our county treasurer, Nate Anderson. Further than this every man in the employ of the Consolidated Paper Co., and the number is legion as it embraces many mills in Wisconsin and Minnesota, from the superintendents down to the most menial workmen, have agreed to donate a day's labor that the week shall be succeeded and a way paved for the education and up-bringing of an unusually large family.

Bless these thoughtful and big hearted men, and who can gainsay that their reward will be ever as glorious as that of those brave men of the Titanic.

The funeral of Ralph W. Parson was held from the house at 1:30 p. m. Saturday, Rev. James Blau officiating. Interment followed in the family lot in the Plover cemetery. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in this vicinity, about 40 teams being in the procession. At the time of his death Mr. Parson was district clerk and town assessor. He was a member of Plover Colony, No. 42, of the Beaver Reserve Fund Fraternity. The pallbearers were chosen from that society. They were Oren Piko, Elmer Dakins, Lee Simonds, Levi McGown, Bert Gilman, and Ernest Krugert. The deceased came here from Ohio with his parents when a small boy and grew to manhood here. In company with his brother, N. C. Parson, he owned and operated one of the finest farms in Portage county. He was of a kindly, pleasant disposition, one who made and kept friends—no fact no one knew Ralph but to love and respect him. He leaves a widow and two little boys, aged five and three years, and aged mother, two sisters, Mrs. Dora Gilman of Plover and Mrs. May Earler of North Dakota and two brothers, Walter of Plover, and Norman, who lives on the farm. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and among them were a wreath from the school board and a wreath from the Beaver Colony.

After putting in four years on his device, R. C. Bartlett of Wausau has secured a patent on his bug and worm collector, which he says will by means of a blower pipe system which is run by a gasoline engine attached to the machine, draw potato bugs off the plants into the hoods. When the engine is in operation a strong suction is created in each hood and the bugs which may be knocked off by the hood in its passage over the plant as well as those clinging to the plant are drawn through the tubes into the fan casing. The machine is pulled by one horse and covers two, four or six rows of potatoes at a time. The weight of the machine is four hundred pounds.

Just Between You and Me.

The biggest program ever offered the people of Grand Rapids, a real musical comedy, The Frolics of 1912, with 35 first class acting people and a carload of scenery at the unheard of bargain prices of 25c, 35c and 50c, all seats reserved. Seats on sale today. Daly's theater, Sunday night. Our usual picture program Saturday night.

Tomahawk has been chosen as the location of a permanent state camp of the Boy Scouts. The Badger Camp Association has been incorporated to own and operate the camp, the incorporators being Prof. J. C. Blom, M. D., physical director of the University of Wisconsin; Prof. L. H. Ingersoll, University of Wisconsin; F. Dunlap, United States Forest Products Laboratory, Madison; Daniel Sprague, Elroy.

A movement which has for its object the improvement of Wisconsin potatoes, has been started at the College of Agriculture of the University of Wisconsin. Too many varieties are now being grown in the state. To remedy this situation uniform seed stock of standard market varieties of proved worth will be selected at most of the more important potato shipping points of the state. Nearly 800 bushels of Rural New Yorker, Burbank, Peerless, Early Rose, Early Ohio and Triumph, were distributed by the agricultural college this spring. Special meetings of the potato growers have also been arranged, at which growers are urged to unite upon a few standard varieties.

About Trout.

"Charles Dudley Warner in his 'Trout Fight with a Trout' described the trout fly."

"The trout fly does not resemble any known species of insect. It is a conventionalized creation, as we say of ornamentation. The theory is that, fly fishing being a high art, the fly must not have a tame imitation of nature but an artful to construct one; and not every bungler can take a bit of red flannel, a peacock's feather, a flash of tinsel thread, a cock's plume, a section of a hen's wing, and fabricate a tiny fly, cast it into the water, and expect it to catch a trout. The trout is a creature that will not look like any fly, but still suggest the universal conventional fly."

A son of Anax, confronted with this indubitable evidence of the effectiveness of post-impressionism exclaimed that when he wanted trout he took fishing worms and got them, but others than Philistines will pause for thought.

Mr. Warner anticipated the post-impressionists and cubists by a couple of generations and saw that the trout imagination "got" the rat and that the trout intelligence demanded it. A trout would have grasped the "Nude Descending a Staircase."

Evidently the place for the international exhibit of modern painters was in an aquarium.

The acting company of "The Frolics of 1912," which comes to Daly's theater next Sunday, includes such well known musical comedy stars as Rubie Welch and Kitty Francis, late co-stars of the big Lew Fields production of "The Midnight Sons." May (Coyne) who has been identified with "The Girl Behind the Counter," and others. A company of 35 at the unusual price of 50c for the best seats. Men of Big Hearts.
(Littleville Record)
A woman is protected the world over. It seems to matter little whether it is in mid-ocean, with the band playing "Nearer My God to Thee" as a giant steamer is going to the bottom, when men give their places in the boats to women and babies, whose husbands fear themselves from wives do not leave them to wait their inevitable doom on the decks of the slowly settling ship, or whether it is the sad death of a paper mill employee in the Wisconsin Valley, leaving a young widow with but the heritage of seven small children and a dark and gloomy outlook for the future.
But men will be men, and can be depended upon in case of dire stress to make way for the frailest sex. While cut, Wisconsin men have not been called upon to give up their lives, and the stage setting is not as grandly eloquent as was the cast for the heroes of the Titanic, yet those who were companions of Walter Farmer, have shown that their hearts are as big and capable of that same strain of gallantry, in their unique and unostentatious way of providing for the stricken widow of a fellow laborer.
The Consolidated Company of Grand Rapids, had placed offers of $50 each for the finding of the bodies of the drowned men. Both these rewards were promptly turned over to Mrs. Farmer. And one of these reward checks had been made out to our county treasurer, Nate Anderson. Further than this every man in the employ of the Consolidated Paper Co., and the number is legion as it embraces many mills in Wisconsin and Minnesota, from the superintendent down to the most menial workman, have agreed to donate a day's labor that the weak shall be succored and a way paved for the education and up-bringing of an unusually large family.
Bless these thoughtful and big hearted men, and may they carry on to carry on successfully the business affairs of life better than to deal thru a bank that makes just such affairs its life work.
We give our patrons information and assistance absolutely free of cost and welcome small accounts.

The funeral of Ralph W. Parson was held from the house at 1:30 p. m. Saturday. Rev. James Blake officiating. Interment followed in the family lot in the Elmwood cemetery. It was one of the largest funerals ever held in this vicinity, about 40 teams being in the procession. At the time of his death Mr. Parson was district clerk and town assessor. He was a member of Plover Colony, No. 42, of the Beaver Reserve Fund Fraternity. The pallbearers were chosen from among the men of the Plover colony. They were: Oren Pike, Elmer Dekins, Lee Simonds, Levi McGowan, Bert Gilman, and Ernest Krugert. The deceased came here from Ohio with his parents when a small boy and grew to manhood here. In company with his brother, N. C. Parson, he owned and operated one of the finest farms in Portage county. He was a kindly, pleasant disposition, one who made and kept friends in fact no one knew Ralph but to love and respect him. He leaves a widow and two little boys, aged five and three years, and aged mother, two sisters, Mrs. Dora Gilman of Plover and Mrs. May Earler of North Dakota and two brothers, Walter of Plover and Norbert, who lives on the farm. The funeral offerings were many and beautiful and among them a wreath from the school board and a wreath from the Beaver Colony.

When the engine is in operation a strong suction is created in each hood and the bugs which may be knocked off by the hood in its passage over the plant as well as those clinging to the plant are drawn through the tubes into the fan casing. The machine is pulled by one horse and covers two, four or six rows of potatoes at a time. The weight of the machine is four hundred pounds.
